◆ IACP AUGUST VOLLMER AWARD TO HOUSTON POLICE DEPARTMENT ◆

The International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) recognizes the significant impact that forensic science has on the criminal justice system. The August Vollmer Excellence in Forensic Science Award has been created to honor the proactive, innovative use of forensic technologies by law enforcement. Presented yearly at the IACP conference, awards are given in the following categories:

- Current or Past Contribution to Forensic Science by Police Agency.
- Current or Past Contribution to Forensic Science by an Individual
- Current or Past Collaboration in Forensic Science.
- Innovation in Forensic Technology.
- Significant Investigative Value in a Major Crime.
- Enhancement of Forensic Capability by a Forensic Science Provider.

This year, the Houston PD (HPD) Crime Laboratory Division received the August Vollmer Award for Significant Investigative Value in a Major Crime. The Firearms Section of the Houston Police Department Crime Laboratory Division Utilized IBIS to link firearms evidence in twelve different investigations, including several capital murders and aggravated assaults, involving members of the La Tercera Crips (LTC) gang over a ten month period. Their diligent efforts resulted in the arrest of eight gang members and a recovery of some of the murder weapons. The success of the arrest of LTC gang members underscores the importance of providing timely investigative information to detectives. Additionally, it highlights the necessity of constructive teamwork. The outcome of the investigations would not have been possible without the open communications and dialogue between forensic scientists and detectives. Working hand in hand both entities openly shared key information to solve the cases. Law enforcement agencies should not overlook the valuable information that their crime laboratories can provide them to assist in solving cases and saving time in manpower resources.

If implemented, the classes will be held in the same week, with each course lasting 2 1/2 days. All students will continue to be responsible for funding all travel expenses. (This will tentatively take effect March 2010).

U.S.– Mexico IBIS Exchange During the week of December 7, 2009, ATF met with FT in Montreal, Canada regarding the US- Mexico exchange. The main issue of discussion was the sanitization of information to ensure that the users in Mexico could not determine what site or user in the US entered the information. Procedures for the sanitization are still under discussion. Detailed plans for the testing of 1 IBIS data correlation international server are underway along with the testing of the 13 US IBIS data correlation servers all to be deployed in the US. The US IBIS servers will be refreshed and the current US IBIS software will be upgraded prior to deploying the US IBIS International server.
