It's time that Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use it's authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

Subject: I oppose the ATF multi-rifle sale reporting requirements

Importance: High

I am writing to oppose the so called emergency information collection request to register multiple sales of certain rifles with BATFE as described in FR Doc. 2010-31761 from the 12/17/2010 Federal Register.

This information collection is both illegal and unnecessary. Furthermore, there is no justification for any “emergency” implementation as reported by the Washington Post: 'White House delayed rule meant to stop gun flow to Mexico', Washington Post, Dec. 17, 2010, On-line edition: ( <http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2010/12/17/AR2010121706598.html> ).

* The regulation proposed is outside the statutory grant of authority to record information about multiple sales of firearms. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) specifically grants the authority to collect multiple sale information on handguns and revolvers. Other firearms are excluded and there is no implied authority to extend this reporting requirement to rifles or any other type of firearm.

* This attempt by ATF is universally and overwhelmingly opposed by citizens and their congressional delegations. See the following:

<http://rehberg.house.gov/index.cfm?sectionid=26&parentid=5&sectiontree=5,26&itemid=1584>

* The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of information collected, which establishes a nationwide registry of “certain types of firearms” as proposed. Because of this the regulation as proposed is illegal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a). “No such rule or regulation ... may require that records required to be maintained under this chapter or any portion of the contents of such records, be recorded at or transferred to a facility owned, managed, or controlled by the United States or any State or any political subdivision thereof, nor that any system of registration of firearms, firearms owners, or firearms transactions or disposition be established.”

There is a grave potential for this information collection to unduly burden citizens who are collectors or must obtain purchase permits at the local or state level to possess firearms. The proposed regulation does not say what the agency intends to do with the information but ostensibly it would be for criminal investigations. Subjecting law abiding gun owners to this type of investigation under the guise of “information collection” is an overt attempt to prevent them from exercising their 2nd Amendment rights to purchase and own firearms.

Sincerely,

Pamela Freund

Dear Barbara Terrell,

It's hard to believe we even need to register our support for this sensible approach to a very serious problem. But I don't "get" the mindset that disapproves of every form of regulation. How many more innocent people have to die before we do something about the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

It's time that Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use its authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

Subject: Oppose Regulation Expanding Multiple Sale Reporting

I am writing to oppose the so called emergency regulation to register multiple sales of certain rifles with BATFE as described in FR Doc. 2010-31761 from the 12/17/2010 Federal Register.

This regulation is both illegal and unnecessary. Further there is no justification for any "emergency" implementation as reported by the Washington Post:

White House delayed rule meant to stop gun flow to Mexico, Washington Post, Dec. 17, 2010, On-line edition:

* The regulation proposed is outside the statutory grant of authority to record information about multiple sales of firearms. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) specifically grants the authority to collect multiple sale information on handguns and revolvers. Other firearms are excluded and there is no implied authority to extend this reporting requirement to rifles or any other type of firearm.

* "FFL" holders are already required by law to respond to BATFE requests for information on firearms distribution pursuant to criminal investigations: Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(7).

* The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of information collected, which establishes a nationwide registry of "certain types of firearms" as proposed. Because of this the regulation as proposed is illegal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a). "No such rule or regulation . may require that records required to be maintained under this chapter or any portion of the contents of such records, be recorded at or transferred to a facility owned, managed, or controlled by the United States or any State or any political subdivision thereof, nor that any system of registration of firearms, firearms owners, or firearms transactions or disposition be established."

There is a grave potential for this regulation to unduly burden citizens who are collectors or must obtain purchase permits at the local or state level to possess firearms. The proposed regulation does not say what the agency intends to do with the information but ostensibly it would be for criminal investigations. Subjecting law abiding gun owners to this type of investigation under the guise of "information collection" is an overt attempt to prevent them from exercising their 2nd Amendment rights to purchase and own firearms.

This regulatory action should not be approved.

Furthermore, I think that information regarding the percentage of traced guns from Mexico that derive from government regulated sales to Mexican government channels should be immediately released.

This is an unnecessary regulation and is not allowed under Federal law. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) does not grant any such registration of multiple purchases of firearms, except for handguns.

The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of the collected information, and therefore is not legal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a).

Dear Barbara,

Every one is concerned about the loss of life through the Miss-use of a powerfull tool or machine. More control and record keeping will not stop the crazy violence of isolated individuals. If we have better early education on firearm use and misuse, we would have much less violence with firearms. If our purpose is to save lives , in general, then why not reduce the speed limit to thirty-five mile per hour on highways. If you scoff at this statement. You are not that concerned with saving lives, or you are attached to an addicted style of living that leads to much death, and alienation from decent human values. More innocent lives are lost on the highway in one week , than by crazies shooting innocent people over a period five years. Please ponder this. Also, I believe that law-abiding armed citizens with Concealed Carry Permits. Will prevent most deaths from the illegal use of firearms. For example, the first person to respond to the latest travesty of justice had a concealed permit, and was armed. This is logical. He , and the two others grappled with the gun man and controlled him. Citizens should be armed, but guns should never be used for any activity other than saving Ones' own life or the life of another innocent person. We need early childhood eduction on the nature of self respect and gun violence. Children should be taught that using guns to gain power and respect will not work. Only good conduct and caring for others welfare will give us the respect all human beings desire and need.

Thank you for reading this, Pasquale Galante

Ma'am,

What part of NO don't you folks understand? The right to bear arms SHALL NOT BE INFRINGED. That means NO such regulations or record-keeping.

I know your rationale. I don't buy it. Simply require gun sellers to check ID. That's it! You are supposed to use the least burdensome means to accomplish your goal.

I want my neighbors armed, and it's fine with me if they have semi-automatic, greater than .22 caliber guns.

Such efforts as you outline hasn't kept the border safe in Arizona. It wouldn't. The way to keep the border safe is to make sure that the residents there are ARMED. And if they can get together a group to defend their property, the better it will be.

Dear Ms. Terrell:

I'm writing to voice my opposition to the planned ATF change to include multiple long-gun transactions reporting requirements.

Not only are there many reasons why the process is over burdensome, but this is an issue that should be decided by congress, not internally. Congress should enact all Federal Regulations as regards firearms. The State's are not correct in their current "changes" (exemptions or whatever they've decided they want) being made, but the Agency is incorrect as well regarding such a far sweeping change being made internally. If ATF has cause for such an extensive change, let the director present findings to the Congress supporting such.

Firearms regulations affect the country; Congress is elected by the entire country. Individual states are not representative of the country as a whole, neither is the director of any agency. Allowing such change by those the entire people do not elect is not representative. The director of ATF may not even be approved by congress; therefore nothing can even be promoted to suggest that the "people" have representation.

Respectfully,

Patrick B. Wright

Dear Ms. Terrell (ATF.gov)

Thank you for this opportunity to comment.

The ATF proposal to require enhanced reporting re firearms in the SW states will Not reach the very laudable goal to reduce crimial activies at or near the U.S.-Mexico border. Not even close.

Criminals are just that and at best will only be minorly "inconvenienced" by more gun control laws of any nature or severity. Never have, never will.

The only successful action is a complete commitment to Fully prosecute and majorly inconvenience those convicted.of violating existing U.S. laws.

As an aside, this American was virtually forced to move from my native state of California to a far safer locale in northern Idaho. The six (6) personal and physical attacks on my person began in Whittier, CA in 1964. and ended 30 years ago after yet more illegal Mexican aliens attempted to kidnap, in broad daylight. our then three (3) month old daughter in Thousand Oaks, CA.

The U.S. Gov't has apparently CHOSEN to suppress the enforcement of our immigration laws at the border and elsewhere. One LE officer told us in 1978 that the Mexican gang leader we ID'ed from the "mug" book had already been arrested and deported 36 times! Go figure.

Criminals commit crimes, Barbara, not hardware.

Ms. Terrell,

I consider the new proposal to collection more information on the sale of firearms a clear waste of time. I have been known to buy more than two rifles at the same time.

I am a law abiding citizen living in Texas. I have heard of some people comiting criminal acts in taking guns acorss the Mexican border. We need to seek out those people for prosecution under the current laws.

In the event of an illegal arms sale I would call the police promptly.

* The regulation proposed is outside the statutory grant of authority to record information about multiple sales of firearms. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) specifically grants the authority to collect multiple sale information on handguns and revolvers. Other firearms are excluded and there is no implied authority to extend this reporting requirement to rifles or any other type of firearm.

* "FFL" holders are already required by law to respond to BATFE requests for information on firearms distribution pursuant to criminal investigations: Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(7).

* The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of information collected, which establishes a nationwide registry of "certain types of firearms" as proposed. There is still a "Rule of Law" in this country and the BATF is breaching the law and second amendment rights. Do not do it!!!

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives is demanding the authority to require all of the 8,500 firearm dealers in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas to report all sales of two or more semiautomatic rifles within five consecutive business days, if the rifles are larger than .22 caliber and use detachable magazines.

The ATF has no legal authority to demand these reports, and the flood of new paperwork will waste scarce law enforcement resources that should be spent on legitimate investigations.

It's time that Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use it's authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

This country needs to revise what guns it sells, too. The assassination attempt on our Representative brings to the front the fact that inappropriate guns and ammunition are being sold with no education, registration or screening of the purchaser.

I support the emergency regulation to report multiple sales of certain rifles with BATFE as described in FR Doc. 201031761 from the 12/17/2010 Federal Register.

This is needed to cut down the flow of firearms from corrupt gun dealers into Mexico. Every gun sold has the ability to be used on American citizens down there and along the drug routes here in the US. This is needed for public safety and homeland security.

This in no way restricts the Second Amendment and is part of the reasonable restrictions set forth by the Supreme Court in the Heller case.

I do believe that something needs to be done about american firearms going over the boarder to Mexico, but forcing law abiding citizens to report to the ATF is not the way to solve the problem. The US needs more man power in the Boarder Patrol, and more man power at the boarder entries.

These problems are not just too close to home, they are on our soil! The US should not be contributing to these wars by providing guns.

Stop the sale of large quantities of assault rifles. In fact, the US should not have assault rifles available for sale within the US; guns that are finding their way to Mexico (and elsewhere).

Dear Barbara Terrell,

It's time that Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use it's authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

It's time that the Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use its authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

Subject: Support for the Reporting of Multiple Sales of Long Guns

Dear Barbara Terrell,

It's time that the Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use its authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

Subject: ATF Long Gun Sales Reporting

I am writing in response to the proposed requirement to report multiple long gun sales. This new proposed rule would be a waste of tax payer's dollars. Not only will the criminals find an easy way around this silly requirement, it will further take more ATF hours to follow up on fruitless leads. Another aspect is the dealers. They are already laden with paperwork, to meet the requirements of the ATF, this is just one more worthless "feel good" requirement that will waste thousands of hours of hard working people, who in this economy have much more to do with their time than fill out worthless forms, like working and trying to make a living. Overall crime is down the past two years, this corresponds with the increase in firearms sales the last two years. It seems to lower crime we should be less restrictive on firearms.

Subject: Oppose Regulation Expanding Multiple Sale Reporting

Ms. Terrell,

I am writing to oppose the so called emergency regulation to register multiple sales of certain rifles with BATFE as described in FR Doc. 2010-31761 from the 12/17/2010 Federal Register.

This regulation is both illegal and unnecessary. Further there is no justification for any "emergency" implementation as reported by the Washington Post:

White House delayed rule meant to stop gun flow to Mexico, Washington Post, Dec. 17, 2010, On-line edition:

* The regulation proposed is outside the statutory grant of authority to record information about multiple sales of firearms. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) specifically grants the authority to collect multiple sale information on handguns and revolvers. Other firearms are excluded and there is no implied authority to extend this reporting requirement to rifles or any other type of firearm.

* "FFL" holders are already required by law to respond to BATFE requests for information on firearms distribution pursuant to criminal investigations: Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(7).

* The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of information collected, which establishes a nationwide registry of "certain types of firearms" as proposed. Because of this the regulation as proposed is illegal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a). "No such rule or regulation . may require that records required to be maintained under this chapter or any portion of the contents of such records, be recorded at or transferred to a facility owned, managed, or controlled by the United States or any State or any political subdivision thereof, nor that any system of registration of firearms, firearms owners, or firearms transactions or disposition be established."

There is a grave potential for this regulation to unduly burden citizens who are collectors or must obtain purchase permits at the local or state level to possess firearms. The proposed regulation does not say what the agency intends to do with the information but ostensibly it would be for criminal investigations. Subjecting law abiding gun owners to this type of investigation under the guise of "information collection" is an overt attempt to prevent them from exercising their 2nd Amendment rights to purchase and own firearms.

This regulatory action should not be approved.

The BATFE, like all other law enforcement entities, can go to a court of law and present credible evidence to obtain an order to search the records of any business, let alone a firearms business. "Fishing expeditions" are not part of the Constitution and Bill of Rights. Such a reporting requirement, in my opinion, amount to "unreasonable search and seizure."

As a concerned gun owner and purchaser I wish our government would think before wasting time and money to pass laws that require the law abiding citizen to register weapons of any kind. Do criminals register theirs? Of course not they are criminals. What good does it do for a law abiding citizen to register theirs other than give the government which works for us Big Brother authority. Stop acting like you're doing something to improve this country and put it into law enforcement where it belongs.

It's time that Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use its authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

Below are the comments that I recently submitted to OMB regarding a proposed expansion of ATF authority that I feel would further erode 2nd amendment rights, would not be beneficial, and would be a further waste of tax dollars:

Office of Management & Budget

Re: Federal Register Notice of December 17, 2010 (Volume 75, Number 242, Page 79021), 60-Day Emergency Notice of Information Collection Under

Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to offer our comments on this Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF) information collection request to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

The notice proposed an "emergency" requirement that certain federal firearms licensees report multiple sales or other dispositions whenever the licensee sells or otherwise disposes of two or more rifles within any five consecutive business days with the following characteristics: (a) Semi automatic; (b) a caliber greater than .22; and (c) the ability to accept a detachable magazine.

ATF does not currently have the statutory authority to impose this requirement on licensees, and congress has not authorized any expansion of that authority which would allow ATF to further impose themselves upon licensees and law-abiding citizens.

Without an expansion in authority, staff, budget and use of computerized monitoring that would currently violated federal law in a blatant example of Machiavellianism, ATF could not make effective use of the large number of reports that would be generated. Recent media reports suggest that ATF is already unable to handle dealers' voluntary, real-time reports of possible "straw purchases." If processing thousands of additional mandatory reports takes even more resources away from investigating these suspicious transactions, the proposed information collection may more harm than good.

While drug-related violence in Mexico needs to be addressed, reducing the rights of U.S. citizens by the proposed imposition is not the way to do it. Mexican drug cartels have access to any and all types of arms on the international black markets, so there is no excuse for U.S. law enforcement agencies to spend millions of new tax dollars on programs that exceed their legal powers.

It is my belief therefore that OMB should deny ATF's request to approve its proposed collection of information. If you have any questions about our comments, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Hello,

I would like state my opposition to the ATF long gun sales reporting. This is another infringement on our freedoms as American citizens and more government involvement in our lives. There will always be maniacs out there who ruin things for the good citizen, no matter how many laws and regulations the government tries, whether it's about guns or whatever.

This is also another waste of tax payers money, because we will be the ones who will be paying for funding of this foolishness/nonsense.

Thank you.

This is an unnecessary regulation and is not allowed under Federal law. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) does not grant any such registration of multiple purchases of firearms, except for handguns.

The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of the collected information, and therefore is not legal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a).

Dear. Ms. Terrell:

I am writing on the above referenced proposal to offer our comments on the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF) information collection request to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). The notice proposed an "emergency" requirement that certain federal firearms licensees report multiple sales or other dispositions whenever the licensee sells or otherwise disposes of two (2) or more rifles within any five (5) consecutive business days with the following characteristics: (a) Semi automatic; (b) a caliber greater than .22; and (c) the ability to accept a detachable magazine.

As of now, it is my understanding that the OMB has denied the "emergency" request. But regardless of the timeframe in which approval is sought, ATF does not have the statutory authority to impose this requirement on licensees. The reasons for that lack of authority are fully explained in a legal memorandum from the NRA

In short, U.S. law enforcement agencies should not be spending scarce resources on programs that exceed their legal powers. Therefore, OMB should deny ATF's request to approve its proposed collection of information. Thank you.

Subject: This long gun registration is just hurting US citizens. It should never be legal, it is against what our forefathers wanted and it doesn't really make sense. Sure, there are many stolen firearms as well as cars, industrial equipment and other tools that end up in Mexico every day, but if you really look at it, you will see that these gangs want fully automatic weapons, which are not freely available here. This is a power play by the factions that run this country and world, they do not want any citizenry to be able to stand against them. Them Corporacrats own everything and want to own the control of all industrialized nations. This is just another gun grab. These long guns are very hard to hide, so when people use them, people notice. The gangs want fully functional AK 47s, those guns make their way from other central american countries, not from American gun stores.

Many Americans are getting paranoid about the government, this is why. When the laws keep changing(they can't even enforce the laws already in effect) all that happens is that certain groups in the government want to make an example out of someone that has been a thorn in their side, so they then use these trumped up charges(which were not ever meant to be used that way), to get thier foes put in jail. This is un American. I am a lifelong Democrat, I am not a tea party member, or a hater, but i do believe in individual and civil rights, which are being eroded even as you read this. please, enforce the laws on the books, then, if it doesn't do the job, try another, one at a time. Criminals can always have guns, only the law abiding will turn them in. States with fewer gun laws have lower crime rates - this has been proven over and over.

Be an American and support individual liberties.

Subject: Expanding Multiple Sale Reporting Regulation

Ms. Barbara A. Terrell,
BATFE
Firearms Industry Programs Branch

Hello Ms. Terrell,

I am writing to oppose the "emergency" regulation to register multiple sales of certain rifles with BATFE as described in FR Doc. 2010-31761 from the 12/17/2010 Federal Register.
<http://edocket.access.gpo.gov/2010/pdf/2010-31761.pdf>

I believe that this regulation is unnecessary and is most likely illegal.

The regulation proposed is outside the statutory grant of authority to record information about multiple sales of firearms. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) specifically grants the authority to collect multiple sale information on handguns and revolvers. Other firearms are excluded and there is no implied authority to extend this reporting requirement to rifles or any other type of firearm.

Currently "FFL" holders are already required by law to respond to BATFE requests for information on firearms distribution pursuant to criminal investigations: Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(7).

The proposed regulation contains no provision for the destruction of information collected, which establishes a nationwide registry of "certain types of firearms". Because of this the regulation as proposed is illegal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a).

"No such rule or regulation. may require that records required to be maintained under this chapter or any portion of the contents of such records, be recorded at or transferred to a facility owned, managed, or controlled by the United States or any State or any political subdivision thereof, nor that any system of registration of firearms, firearms owners, or firearms transactions or disposition be established."

There is a grave potential for this regulation to unduly burden law abiding citizens who are collectors or must obtain purchase permits at the local or state level to possess firearms. The proposed regulation does not say what the agency intends to do with the information but ostensibly it would be for criminal investigations. Subjecting law abiding gun owners to this type of investigation under the guise of "information collection" is an overt attempt to prevent them from exercising their constitutionally protected 2nd Amendment rights to purchase and own firearms.

In addition, this regulatory action has not allowed the public sufficient time to comment.

I strongly urge you to rethink this misguided effort and believe that this regulatory action should not be approved.

Sincerely,

Paul Curtis
Wylie, TX

Subject: Re: Federal Register Notice of December 17, 2010 (Volume 75, Number 242,Page 79021),

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing your offer our comments on this Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF) information collection request to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

The notice proposed an "emergency" requirement that certain federal firearms licensees report multiple sales or other dispositions whenever the licensee sells or otherwise disposes of two or more rifles within any five consecutive business days with the following characteristics: (a) Semi automatic; (b) a caliber greater than .22; and (c) the ability to accept a detachable magazine.

Now, the OMB has denied the "emergency" request. But regardless of the timeframe in which approval is sought, ATF does not have the statutory authority to impose this requirement on licensees.

The reasons for that lack of authority are fully explained in the attached legal memorandum; but in short, the Congress has comprehensively defined what ATF may and may not require with respect to licensees' records. By specifically requiring reports only of multiple handgun sales, Congress implicitly rejected the idea of requiring reports on multiple sales of other firearms. ATF seemed to understand that point when it responded in October to a recommendation for multiple long gun sales reporting by the Department of Justice Inspector General. ATF's comment on that recommendation was that it would "explore the full range of options" but that such a requirement "may require a change to the Gun Control Act."<sup>1</sup>

These reports will be requested through "demand letters"—a mechanism that for many years had been used only to conduct firearm traces, to obtain aggregate manufacturing statistics, or to obtain contact information for buyers of certain firearms later declared to be subject to the National Firearms Act. Even when ATF began to use demand letters to seek a broader range of firearm transaction records, one court upholding that program cautioned that the demand letter statute "is not a limitless delegation of authority" and "cannot be construed in an open-ended fashion."<sup>2</sup>

The scope of the proposed collection suggests in itself that the proposal exceeds ATF's statutory authority. The Fourth Circuit stressed that the letter at issue in the RSM case was sent to only 41 licensees out of the 80,000 licensees in the United States.<sup>3</sup> A second type of demand letter was sent to only 450 dealers nationwide.<sup>4</sup>

Now, ATF proposes to issue demand letters to approximately 8,500 licensees.

That estimate appears to be based on the total number of licensed dealers and pawnbrokers in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas. If so, nearly one out of seven firearm retailers in the United States would receive demand letters for multiple rifle sales.

The burden estimate in the proposal appears to assume that each licensee subject to a demand letter will respond once during the proposed duration of the program. Given the great variety in size and sales volume among the thousands of licensees in the border states, this seems unlikely.

Even if the burden estimate in the proposal is correct, it is unclear how ATF could make effective use of the large number of reports that would be generated. Recent media reports suggest that ATF is already unable to handle dealers' voluntary, real-time reports of possible "straw purchases."<sup>5</sup> If processing thousands of additional mandatory reports takes even more resources away from investigating these suspicious transactions, the proposed information collection may be more harmful than helpful.

The NRA is well aware that ATF would, understandably, like to take strong steps to address drug-related violence in Mexico. But lawlessness in Mexico—driven by multi-billion dollar drug cartels with access to any and all types of arms on the

Dear Barbara Terrell,

It's time that the Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use its authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

I am writing to oppose the so called emergency regulation to register multiple sales of certain rifles with BATFE as described in FR Doc. 2010-31761 from the 12/17/2010 Federal Register.

This regulation is both illegal and unnecessary. Further there is no justification for any "emergency" implementation as reported by the Washington Post:

White House delayed rule meant to stop gun flow to Mexico, Washington Post, Dec. 17, 2010, On-line edition:

* The regulation proposed is outside the statutory grant of authority to record information about multiple sales of firearms. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) specifically grants the authority to collect multiple sale information on handguns and revolvers. Other firearms are excluded and there is no implied authority to extend this reporting requirement to rifles or any other type of firearm.

* "FFL" holders are already required by law to respond to BATFE requests for information on firearms distribution pursuant to criminal investigations: Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(7).

* The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of information collected, which establishes a nationwide registry of "certain types of firearms" as proposed. Because of this the regulation as proposed is illegal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a). "No such rule or regulation . may require that records required to be maintained under this chapter or any portion of the contents of such records, be recorded at or transferred to a facility owned, managed, or controlled by the United States or any State or any political subdivision thereof, nor that any system of registration of firearms, firearms owners, or firearms transactions or disposition be established."

There is a grave potential for this regulation to unduly burden citizens who are collectors or must obtain purchase permits at the local or state level to possess firearms. The proposed regulation does not say what the agency intends to do with the information but ostensibly it would be for criminal investigations. Subjecting law abiding gun owners to this type of investigation under the guise of "information collection" is an overt attempt to prevent them from exercising their 2nd Amendment rights to purchase and own firearms.

This regulatory action should not be approved.

Thanks Paul

This is an unnecessary regulation and is not allowed under Federal law. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) does not grant any such registration of multiple purchases of firearms, except for handguns.

The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of the collected information, and therefore is not legal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a).

Laws do matter and this unnecessary and extra-legal proposal must NOT be approved.

Dear Barbara Terrell,

It's time that Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use it's authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

Subject: Long gun Registering.

This country has come to a sad state of affairs when our own government passes laws that only restrict the law abiding citizens of this country and they do nothing against the criminals. This has been stated over and over. Stop passing laws against the legal gun owners and sportsmen and enforce the laws you already have. Also stop letting these individuals get out of prison to do it all over again. An example of your failure is the recent murder of a doctors wife and their two daughters by two individuals that were paroled. In case you do not follow these the doctor was Doctor Petit of Cheshire, CT. His wife and two daughters were not killed by law abiding citizens but by two criminals that you people let out of prison. As an avid sportsmen who respects life and property and only hunts for food I am discussed with the government that does not work on the unemployment and other issues like jobs and fair pay for Americans. This country was founded on freedom stop trying to take it away form the good people and start going after the criminal element.

Subject: Emergency Legislation

Mrs. Terrell,

I am writing to oppose the so called emergency regulation to register multiple sales of certain rifles with BATFE as described in FR Doc. 2010-31761 from the 12/17/2010 Federal Register.

This regulation is both illegal and unnecessary. Further there is no justification for any "emergency" implementation as reported by the Washington Post:

I am concerned that this legislation will have a broader affect then intended. If more money and time was spent on enforcing current laws then additional legislation would not be necessary.

* The regulation proposed is outside the statutory grant of authority to record information about multiple sales of firearms. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) specifically grants the authority to collect multiple sale information on handguns and revolvers. Other firearms are excluded and there is no implied authority to extend this reporting requirement to rifles or any other type of firearm.

* "FFL" holders are already required by law to respond to BATFE requests for information on firearms distribution pursuant to criminal investigations: Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(7).

* The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of information collected, which establishes a nationwide registry of "certain types of firearms" as proposed. Because of this the regulation as proposed is illegal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a). "No such rule or regulation . may require that records required to be maintained under this chapter or any portion of the contents of such records, be recorded at or transferred to a facility owned, managed, or controlled by the United States or any State or any political subdivision thereof, nor that any system of registration of firearms, firearms owners, or firearms transactions or disposition be established."

There is a grave potential for this regulation to unduly burden citizens who are collectors or must obtain purchase permits at the local or state level to possess firearms. The proposed regulation does not say what the agency intends to do with the information but ostensibly it would be for criminal investigations. Subjecting law abiding gun owners to this type of investigation under the guise of "information collection" is an overt attempt to prevent them from exercising their 2nd Amendment rights to purchase and own firearms.

This regulatory action should not be approved.

Thank you for your time. I know that being the POC for such a volatile subject can be... interesting. Have a great evening!

Ms. Terrell,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to any further intrusion of the government into initiatives that will hinder small business as well as enact another paperwork requirement that will have absolutely no impact on the violence of drug cartels. Do you really think that drug cartels will be unable to acquire semi-automatic weapons because of this requirement? ATF and local law enforcement cannot enforce the reporting laws on the books today.

And even if enacted, how could the ATF make effective use of the large number of reports that would be generated. Recent media reports suggest that ATF is already unable to handle dealers' voluntary, real-time reports of possible "straw purchases."

I respectfully request that this ill-considered and illegal administrative request be withdrawn. In the absence of this requirement being shelved, then at election time I will vote for an administration and representatives that will reflect my views.

It's time that Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use it's authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

I oppose the registration of long guns by the ATF. There is no hard proof that US guns go to Mexico for criminal use. The drug gangs are criminals not law abiding US citizens and get weapons any way possible. These people use grenades and automatic weapons not sold in the US. I want ATF to protect our citizen Americans and punish those who break the law. Thank You for your kind consideration and the difficult job you do everyday.

Re: Federal Register Notice of December 17, 2010 (Volume 75, Number 242, PAGE 79021), 60-Day Emergency Notice of Information Collection Under Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles

February 12, 2011

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I have read the proposed regulation regarding the registration of multiple rifle purchases in calibers larger than .22. This proposed regulation has caused me some serious concern and consternation. As a horrible reminder, let me just interject these two quotes:

"Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with the view of confiscating them and leaving the population defenseless."
--Vladimir Ilich Lenin

"This year will go down in history. For the first time, a civilized nation has full gun registration! Our streets will be safer, our police more efficient, and the world will follow our lead into the future." --Adolf Hitler, 1935

Let's please try not to have to deal with any totalitarian laws and restrictions like that again anytime soon! I am concerned that this proposed regulation will just lead the country further down the slippery slope that will end with the regulation of all of all firearms and eventually to someone similar to the crazies quoted above using that regulatory power to the disadvantage of us all. I sincerely believe that we, as a nation, are best served by keeping the number of laws restricting all individual rights and freedoms to a minimum. After all, we did defeat those totalitarian régimes (at a very great cost of life and national wealth) in a large part due to our beliefs in personal freedoms and civil rights.

I assume that this proposed regulatory activity has been brought on by the actions of the drug wars currently being waged in Mexico. This is without doubt a major problem for the law abiding citizens of both of our countries. However, the bigger issue is whether the use of restrictive laws and regulations implemented against law abiding citizens is warranted in this situation (or ever warranted for that matter).

There are, in fact, more than 20,000 Federal, State, and local laws (yes, 20,000, not a misprint) dealing with the control of firearms in this country. Surely these weapons traffickers must have violated at least one of them! Implementing more regulations, bureaucratic red tape, and lists isn't going to stop illegal weapons traffic! Quite frankly, the Federal Government and its various bureaus have already passed enough restrictive laws and regulations dealing with firearms.

The way to reduce weapons trafficking is to ENFORCE THE EXISTING LAWS and to hold those responsible for their actions accountable. Again, restricting or infringing the rights of law abiding firearm owners will not help reduce these incidents.

I am asking that you consider the overwhelming advantages in enforcing existing regulations and to please not attempt to institute more restrictive regulations that only infringe on the law abiding citizen's rights of firearm ownership. History has shown over and over again that criminals have never been kept from obtaining weapons despite the passage of any laws intended to prevent them from gaining access to them. On the contrary, it is to the distinct advantage of criminals to keep firearms out of the hands of law abiding citizens!

GUN CONTROL LAWS ARE NOT, AND NEVER HAVE BEEN, SUCCESSFUL! (Unless, of course, you consider NAZI Germany, fascist Italy, or communist Russia as successes!)

Respectfully,

Peter Bezich

Dear Ms. Terrell;

Reporting long gun sales along the southern border will do nothing to stop the mayhen on the border. All it is is another feel good law that completely misses the problem. The border is a kill zone because neither Bush or Obama will close it. The place has turned into a nightmare. Americans are routinely being killed and police are being threatened with assanation on a regular basis. There are places in the Un ited States where the Govt. tells AMERICANS not to go because its so unsafe due to the Mexican drug cartels. This is America! Instead of long gun reporting send the American army and start kicking some Mexican butts!

The cartels are using fully automatic weapons no federally licensed American dealer in their right mind would sell them.

The cartels have billions of dollars available to them thanks to the nit wits that pay for drugs in the U.S. The cartels are getting these weapons from international gun runners, one in particular from Russia, he alone has supplied many of the terrorest groups in the middle east and Africa.

With corruption in Mexico all the way to the presidency and an unguarded east and west coast plus a porus southern border moving guns in to Mexico is easy.

This proposed long gun reporting is just more left wing, second ammendment haters trash.

It would be refreshing for a change to see the Fed. actually do something that works.

I guess Ronald Ragen was right. The scariest 9 words in the english language are "we are from the Govt. and we are here to help!"

Sincerely

Peter Diatelevi

It's time that the Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use its authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

Please OPPOSE the "Notice of Information Collection Under Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles."

This is an unnecessary regulation and is not allowed under Federal law. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) does not grant any such registration of multiple purchases of firearms, except for handguns.

The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of the collected information, and therefore is not legal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a).

Please OPPOSE the "Notice of Information Collection Under Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles."

This is an unnecessary regulation and is not allowed under Federal law. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) does not grant any such registration of multiple purchases of firearms, except for handguns.

The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of the collected information, and therefore is not legal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a).

Laws do matter and this unnecessary and extra-legal proposal must NOT be approved.

Ms. Terrell,

The Long gun prposal by BTAFE is pointless, except as a registration measure -- which you are not empowered to do. The Mex. gun problem is not about legal weapons nor about consumer legal weapons, it is about arsenal aquired automatic weapons probally stolen in both countries. It is obviously an extra judicial measure. Don't do it. Most citizens who are aware of it do not like it!

Subject: re:OMB December 17, 2010 "Notice of Information Collection under Review: report of multiple sale or other disposition of certain rifles"

Dear BAFTE:

I have sent the following letter to the Office of Management and Budget regarding its December 17, 2010 "Notice of Information Collection under Review: report of multiple sale or other disposition of certain rifles". I am further sending a copy to my US Congressman. I will be closely following the final outcome for this proposal.

Dear Office of Management and Budget:

I am writing regarding your December 17, 2010 "Notice of Information Collection under Review: report of multiple sale or other disposition of certain rifles". I am deeply concerned by the proposal to require the 8,500 firearms dealers in Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, and California to report the sales of multiple long rifles. Not only does this represent overreach of the authority of BAFTE but it represents a waste of taxpayer money. At a time of a 1.5 trillion dollar deficit, the willingness of the administration to waste money on such a pointless activity indicates gross disregard for the welfare of Americans and future generations. If BAFTE has the budget to carry out this proposed policy, then BAFTE has shown that its budget is excessive and should be cut.

Dear Barbara Terrell,

It's time that the Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use its authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

Importance: High

Please OPPOSE the "Notice of Information Collection Under Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles."

This is an unnecessary regulation and is not allowed under Federal law. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) does not grant any such registration of multiple purchases of firearms, except for handguns.

The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of the collected information, and therefore is not legal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a).

Laws do matter and this unnecessary and extra-legal proposal must NOT be approved.

I am writing this in opposition to the idea of reporting multiple long gun sales only in the border states. That is singling out a population and to me is as close to racial profiling as you can come. I know the reason for this proposal and believe the proposal is just another waste of federal money. Because I know the ATF doesn't have enough agents as it is and to add another burden upon them means hiring more people. The federal government is too big as it is now. Drop the idea and put more agents in the field where a difference can be made. Not with seeing if someone in New Mexico bought two rifles this week. What are you going to do with the information, search the residence and see if the guns are still there a couple weeks after purchase. An excuse to commit illegal searches on law abiding citizens of just four states. Do all Fifty States or better yet don't do it at all.

Sincerely Yours,

Hello Barbara, after reading this, one has to wonder where this all stops. I really see no reason for all this tracking. Am i wrong that ALL the weapons that are here in this country and imported aren't tracked from the manufacture already.

I think if your having problems, your really need to look at the process for a person to attain a FFL license. This seems more like a trust and honesty issue.

I for one am a NRA member and Ret. military and now a Federal officer (FFDO). I strongly feel that the system for obtaining a fire arm needs to be standard across the US. The system doesn't need to be burdened by more paper work. I know that's your job, but it really doesn't do much after the horse has left the barn.

Subject: Long gun registration?

If you look at history this has been tried before and did not work up in Canada. The reasons are many, some areas people simply refused the law. Which I agree with 100%. Do not establish and then attempt to enforce long gun registration. It will simply be a nightmare of mistakes, aggravation & targeting the wrong type/groups of people, no pun intended.

I live in NJ where both pro & con for firearms is prevailant & strong. Where the money should be spent might be better off in better control of Military stockpiles of firearms to prevent illegal sales & better/tougher personal screening across the US before purchase. Maybe mandatory Life Sentences for dealers involved in illegal transportation & sales, that might make a point.

I have never had any issues waiting to purchase a firearm. As long as that time is used in an attempt to obtain accurate background checks.

Laws are fine when used to prevent illegal sales, transportation, possession, etc. and all other illegal activities. Not the people who choose to use firearms for hunting, sport & personal protection. Please try to thoroughly study this issue YOURSELF, not inaccurate data from any sources then YOU decide.

--Ms. Terrell, I would like to state my opposition against the US Government mandate of long gun registration in the Southwestern US. This mandate is UNCONSTITUTIONAL and appalls ALL aspects of this country was born to be. I am a former US Marine and have served my country with Duty, Honor, and Conviction to the laws that of which this country was formed. I have taken the oath to protect our country's guidelines against enemies, BOTH FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC. This mandate is is the most vial of laws considered upon those US "law biding citizens". Therefore , I consider this mandate a DOMESTIC ENEMY, and will defend my constitutional rights against this. This mandate will be fought by numbers, NOT by weapons, bullets, or bloodshed. NUMBERS of followers who feel of their constitutional rights brought upon The 2nd Amendment, THE RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS. This world is changing for the worst EVERYDAY. YOUR MANDATES that politicians dream up are exactly that, A DREAM! Law-bidding citizens ARE the victims. The Castle Doctrine and Constitutional Carry needs to be enacted. Consider the $$$$ amount that politicians use on such concocted ideas. Use the $$$$ to Create a PHYSICAL BARRIER, NOT "a tin deterrent". DO NOT BLAME GUNS! If your so WORRIED about Mexico Drug Cartels in that region, LET the MARINES fix the problem. After all , WE have been bailing out the politicians over the last 200+ years . I have been stationed in that region and know it all to well for its problems. COMMUNISM AND SOCIALISM BEGINS WITH CON TROLL OF THE MASSES. Re: Federal Register Notice of December 17, 2010 (Volume 75, Number 242, Page 79021),
60-Day Emergency Notice of Information Collection Under Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing on behalf of myself and fellow law-abiding gun owners to offer our comments on the ATF's information collection request notice to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

The notice proposed an "emergency" requirement that certain federal firearms licensees report multiple sales or other dispositions whenever the licensee sells or otherwise disposes of two or more rifles within any five consecutive business days with the following characteristics: (a) Semi automatic; (b) a caliber greater than .22; and (c) the ability to accept a detachable magazine.

Now, the OMB has denied the "emergency" request. But regardless of the timeframe in which approval is sought, ATF does not have the statutory authority to impose this requirement on licensees.

The reasons for that lack of authority have been presented to your office by representatives at the NRA; but in short, the Congress has comprehensively defined what ATF may and may not require with respect to licensees' records. By specifically requiring reports only of multiple handgun sales, Congress implicitly rejected the idea of requiring reports on multiple sales of other firearms. ATF seemed to understand that point when it responded in October to a recommendation for multiple long gun sales reporting by the Department of Justice Inspector General. ATF's comment on that recommendation was that it would "explore the full range of options" but that such a requirement "may require a change to the Gun Control Act."<sup>1</sup>

These reports will be requested through "demand letters"—a mechanism that for many years had been used only to conduct firearm traces, to obtain aggregate manufacturing statistics, or to obtain contact information for buyers of certain firearms later declared to be subject to the National Firearms Act. Even when ATF began to use demand letters to seek a broader range of firearm transaction records, one court upholding that program cautioned that the demand letter statute "is not a limitless delegation of authority" and "cannot be construed in an open-ended fashion."<sup>2</sup>

The scope of the proposed collection suggests in itself that the proposal exceeds ATF's statutory authority. The Fourth Circuit stressed that the letter at issue in the RSM case was sent to only 41 licensees out of the 80,000 licensees in the United States.<sup>3</sup> A second type of demand letter was sent to only 450 dealers nationwide.<sup>4</sup> Now, ATF proposes to issue demand letters to approximately 8,500 licensees. That estimate appears to be based on the total number of licensed dealers and pawnbrokers in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas. If so, nearly one out of seven firearm retailers in the United States would receive demand letters for multiple rifle sales.

The burden estimate in the proposal appears to assume that each licensee subject to a demand letter will respond once during the proposed duration of the program. Given the great variety in size and sales volume among the thousands of licensees in the Border States, this seems unlikely. Even if the burden estimate in the proposal is correct, it is unclear how ATF could make effective use of the large number of reports that would be generated. Recent media reports suggest that ATF is already unable to handle dealers' voluntary, real-time reports of possible "straw purchases." If processing thousands of additional mandatory reports takes even more resources away from investigating these suspicious transactions, the proposed information collection may be more harmful than helpful.

I am well aware that ATF would, understandably, like to take strong steps to address drug-related violence in Mexico. But lawlessness in Mexico—driven by multi-billion dollar drug cartels with access to any and all types of arms on the international black markets—is no excuse for U.S. law enforcement agencies to spend scarce resources on programs that exceed their legal powers.

Therefore, OMB should deny ATF's request to approve its proposed collection of information.

Sincerely

Jeff Pharris

Subject: December 17, 2010 "Notice of Information Collection Under Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles."

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to offer our comments on this Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF) information collection request to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

The notice proposed an "emergency" requirement that certain federal firearms licensees report multiple sales or other dispositions whenever the licensee sells or otherwise disposes of two or more rifles within any five consecutive business days with the following characteristics: (a) Semi automatic; (b) a caliber greater than .22; and (c) the ability to accept a detachable magazine.

Now, the OMB has denied the "emergency" request. But regardless of the timeframe in which approval is sought, ATF does not have the statutory authority to impose this requirement on licensees.

The reasons for that lack of authority are fully explained in the attached legal memorandum; but in short, the Congress has comprehensively defined what ATF may and may not require with respect to licensees' records. By specifically requiring reports only of multiple handgun sales, Congress implicitly rejected the idea of requiring reports on multiple sales of other firearms. ATF seemed to understand that point when it responded in October to a recommendation for multiple long gun sales reporting by the Department of Justice Inspector General. ATF's comment on that recommendation was that it would "explore the full range of options" but that such a requirement "may require a change to the Gun Control Act."

These reports will be requested through "demand letters"—a mechanism that for many years had been used only to conduct firearm traces, to obtain aggregate manufacturing statistics, or to obtain contact information for buyers of certain firearms later declared to be subject to the National Firearms Act. Even when ATF began to use demand letters to seek a broader range of firearm transaction records, one court upholding that program cautioned that the demand letter statute "is not a limitless delegation of authority" and "cannot be construed in an open-ended fashion."

The scope of the proposed collection suggests in itself that the proposal exceeds ATF's statutory authority. The Fourth Circuit stressed that the letter at issue in the RSM case was sent to only 41 licensees out of the 80,000 licensees in the United States. A second type of demand letter was sent to only 450 dealers nationwide.

Now, ATF proposes to issue demand letters to approximately 8,500 licensees.

That estimate appears to be based on the total number of licensed dealers and pawnbrokers in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas. If so, nearly one out of seven firearm retailers in the United States would receive demand letters for multiple rifle sales.

The burden estimate in the proposal appears to assume that each licensee subject to a demand letter will respond once during the proposed duration of the program. Given the great variety in size and sales volume among the thousands of licensees in the border states, this seems unlikely.

Even if the burden estimate in the proposal is correct, it is unclear how ATF could make effective use of the large number of reports that would be generated. Recent media reports suggest that ATF is already unable to handle dealers' voluntary, real-time reports of possible "straw purchases." If processing thousands of additional mandatory reports takes even more resources away from investigating these suspicious transactions, the proposed information collection may be more harmful than helpful.

The NRA is well aware that ATF would, understandably, like to take strong steps to address drug-related violence in Mexico. But lawlessness in Mexico—driven by multi-billion dollar drug cartels with access to any and all types of arms on the international black markets—is no excuse for U.S. law enforcement agencies to spend scarce resources on programs that exceed their legal powers.

Therefore, OMB should deny ATF's request to approve its proposed collection of information. If you have any questions about our comments, please do not hesitate to contact my office.

Dear Barbara Terrell,

It's time that the Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use its authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

I request you deny the BATFE's request to enforce this proposal. It is beyond the authority Congress has given this agency. It is also nothing more than a backdoor attempt to trace firearms sales.

This will add more expense to the government in a time when out of control spending is the norm in Washington DC. This is needless and an infringement on the right to privacy.

Again, I ask that you deny this proposed regulation.

As the President of the Virginia Citizens Defense League, a grassroots gun organization with 5,000 members, I urge opposition to "Notice of Information Collection Under Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles."

This is an unnecessary regulation and is not allowed under Federal law. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) does not grant any such registration of multiple purchases of firearms, except for handguns.

The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of the collected information, and therefore is not legal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a).

I strongly oppose the proposed regulation on the sales of semi-automatic rifles. First of all our country financially BROKE and we cannot afford anymore useless programs. Criminals will get guns with or without regulations. This is just another attempt to subvert the US Constitution. Chip away a little at a time till our right to bear arms is gone. Stop now! A free citizen is an armed citizen. The US government has proved itself incompetent. Don't believe me? Just watch the evening news.....Over regulation has all but destroyed this country. We don't need anymore regulation by a bunch of corrupt bureaucrats. If I buy semi auto hunting rifles for my family members it is no business of the government to know how many i purchase.

Dear Barbara Terrell,

It's time that the Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use its authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

Subject: Proposal to Register Long Guns in Southwest Boarder States

I contacted the OMB office for info on the above topic this morning but was not able to speak with anyone in person. I would like the opportunity to read it before commenting but since comments are only accepted through today, I make the following statement. I do not support any initiative to register long guns, detachable magazines or not, in the southwest states or anywhere else. The gun laws already on the books cannot be enforced properly. Additional laws only effect people who already adhere to the law. This is a useless infringement on the rights of law abiding gun owners

Please OPPOSE the “Notice of Information Collection Under Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles.”

This is an unnecessary regulation and is not allowed under Federal law. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) does not grant any such registration of multiple purchases of firearms, except for handguns.

The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of the collected information, and therefore is not legal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a).

Laws do matter and this unnecessary and extra-legal proposal must NOT be approved.

I oppose the proposed regulation to require certain Federal Firearm License holders in certain states in the Southwestern United States to report the multiple sales of long arms such as rifles to the same individual. Re: Federal Register Notice of December 17, 2010 (Volume 75, Number 242,

Page 79021), 60-Day Emergency Notice of Information Collection Under

Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing on behalf of the National Rifle Association of America, Inc. (NRA), to offer our comments on this Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF) information collection request to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

The notice proposed an "emergency" requirement that certain federal firearms licensees report multiple sales or other dispositions whenever the licensee sells or otherwise disposes of two or more rifles within any five consecutive business days with the following characteristics: (a) Semi automatic; (b) a caliber greater than .22; and (c) the ability to accept a detachable magazine.

Now, the OMB has denied the "emergency" request. But regardless of the timeframe in which approval is sought, ATF does not have the statutory authority to impose this requirement on licensees.

The reasons for that lack of authority are fully explained in the attached legal memorandum; but in short, the Congress has comprehensively defined what ATF may and may not require with respect to licensees' records. By specifically requiring reports only of multiple handgun sales, Congress implicitly rejected the idea of requiring reports on multiple sales of other firearms. ATF seemed to understand that point when it responded in October to a recommendation for multiple long gun sales reporting by the Department of Justice Inspector General. ATF's comment on that recommendation was that it would "explore the full range of options" but that such a requirement "may require a change to the Gun Control Act."<sup>1</sup>

These reports will be requested through "demand letters"—a mechanism that for many years had been used only to conduct firearm traces, to obtain aggregate manufacturing statistics, or to obtain contact information for buyers of certain firearms later declared to be subject to the National Firearms Act. Even when ATF began to use demand letters to seek a broader range of firearm transaction records, one court upholding that program cautioned that the demand letter statute "is not a limitless delegation of authority" and "cannot be construed in an open-ended fashion."<sup>2</sup>

The scope of the proposed collection suggests in itself that the proposal exceeds ATF's statutory authority. The Fourth Circuit stressed that the letter at issue in the RSM case was sent to only 41 licensees out of the 80,000 licensees in the United States.<sup>3</sup> A second type of demand letter was sent to only 450 dealers nationwide.<sup>4</sup>

Now, ATF proposes to issue demand letters to approximately 8,500 licensees. That estimate appears to be based on the total number of licensed dealers and pawnbrokers in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas. If so, nearly one out of seven firearm retailers in the United States would receive demand letters for multiple rifle sales.

The burden estimate in the proposal appears to assume that each licensee subject to a demand letter will respond once during the proposed duration of the program. Given the great variety in size and sales volume among the thousands of licensees in the border states, this seems unlikely.

Even if the burden estimate in the proposal is correct, it is unclear how ATF could make effective use of the large number of reports that would be generated. Recent media reports suggest that ATF is already unable to handle dealers' voluntary, real-time reports of possible "straw purchases."<sup>5</sup> If processing thousands of additional mandatory reports takes even more resources away from investigating these suspicious transactions, the proposed information collection may be more harmful than helpful.

The NRA is well aware that ATF would, understandably, like to take strong steps to address drug-related violence in Mexico. But lawlessness in Mexico—driven by multi-billion dollar drug cartels with access to any and all types of arms on the international black markets—is no excuse for U.S. law enforcement agencies to spend scarce resources on programs that exceed their legal powers.

ATF HAS NO AUTHORITY TO IMPOSE
MULTIPLE SALES REPORTING FOR RIFLES

The December 17, 2010 "Emergency Notice of Information Collection Under Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles" does not indicate the statutory authority upon which ATF relies for its proposed multiple sales reporting requirement. However, a statement by ATF Deputy Director Kenneth Melson posted online at www.atf.gov indicates that licensees will be sent "demand letters" seeking the information. This memorandum explains why ATF's "demand letter" authority does not authorize the proposed collection.

The statutory authority for "demand letters" is 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(5)(A), which provides:

Each licensee shall, when required by letter issued by the Attorney General, and until notified to the contrary in writing by the Attorney General, submit on a form specified by the Attorney General, for periods and at the times specified in such letter, all record information required to be kept by this chapter or such lesser record information as the Attorney General in such letter may specify.

In determining whether § 923(g)(5)(A) authorizes ATF to require the reporting of multiple sales of certain rifles, its words "must be read in their context and with a view to their place in the overall statutory scheme." Davis v. Michigan Dept. of Treasury, 489 U.S. 803, 809 (1989). More recently, the Supreme Court has explained:

In determining whether Congress has specifically addressed the question at issue, a reviewing court should not confine itself to examining a particular statutory provision in isolation. The meaning—or ambiguity—of certain words or phrases may only become evident when placed in context.... A court must therefore interpret the statute "as a symmetrical and coherent regulatory scheme," . . . and "fit, i f possible, all parts into an harmonious whole . . . ."

FDA v. Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., 529 U.S. 120, 133 (2000)(citations omitted).

In Mastro Plastics Corp. v. Labor Board, 350 U.S. 270, 285 (1956), the Court rejected an interpretation of a statute which read words in isolation:

I f the above words are read in complete isolation from their context in the Act, such an interpretation is possible. However, "In expounding a statute, we must not be guided by a single sentence or member of a sentence, but look to the provisions of the whole law, and to its object and policy." (citations omitted).

350 U.S. at 285.

Thus, in determining the scope of ATF's authority under § 923(g)(5)(A), not only must § 923(g)(5)(A) itself be considered, but other statutory provisions must be considered to ascertain Congress' intent and give effect to the legislative will. Philbrook v. Glodgett, All U.S. 707, 713 (1975).

With respect to multiple sales reporting, Congress has already expressly addressed this question. 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) provides:

(A) Each licensee shall prepare a report of multiple sales or other dispositions whenever the licensee sells or otherwise disposes of, at one time or during any five consecutive business days, two or more pistols, or revolvers, or any combination of pistols and revolvers totalling two or more, to an unlicensed person. The report shall be prepared on a form specified by the Attorney General and forwarded to the office specified thereon and to the department of State police or State law enforcement agency of the State or local law enforcement agency of the local jurisdiction in which the sale or other disposition took place, not later than the close of business on the day that the multiple sale or other disposition occurs.

It is well-established that "a statute ought, upon the whole, to be so construed that, i f it can be prevented, no clause, sentence, or word shall be superfluous, void, or insignificant." Duncan v. Walker, 533 U.S. 167, 174 (2001) (internal quotation marks omitted).

I f § 923(g)(5)(A) authorizes ATF to require the reporting of multiple sales of certain rifles, § 923(g)(3)(A) is rendered superfluous and insignificant because ATF could use the authority of § 923(g)(5)(A) to require the submission of reports of multiple handgun sales. That Congress deemed necessary the enactment of § 923(g)(3)(A) reveals that Congress did not intend that § 923(g)(5)(A) have the broad reach ascribed to it by ATF.

Further, "[w]hen a statute limits a thing to be done in a particular mode, it includes a negative of any other mode." Christensen v. Harris County, 529 U.S. 576, 583 (2000).<sup>1</sup> Here, Congress expressly limited multiple sales reporting to pistols and revolvers, thereby negating multiple sales reporting of certain rifles.

The legislative history of § 923(g)(5)(A) confirms that Congress did not intend that § 923(g)(5)(A) would be used to require reporting of multiple sales reporting of certain rifles.

<sup>1</sup> See also Bulova Watch Co. v. United States, 365 U.S. 753, 758 (1961) ("It is familiar law that a specific statute controls over a general one").

The original demand letter regulation (27 C.F.R. § 178.126) was promulgated under, and became effective on the same date as, the Gun Control Act of 1968, December 16, 1968. § 105(a), P.L. 90-618, 82 Stat. 1213 (1968); 33 F.R. 18555, 18556 (Dec. 14, 1968). Harold Serr, Director of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division, wrote to Senator Frank Church on December 17, 1968:

[U]nder no circumstances does the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division intend to require licensed firearms dealers to submit all records of firearms transactions to a central location. This would be in effect gun registration and the Congress clearly showed its desires in this area when gun legislation was voted on.

131 Cong. Rec. S9129 (July 9, 1985).

Serr wrote that the demand letter regulation would be used "when we become aware of violations of the law by an unscrupulous dealer." Id. An example would be a dealer illegally selling handguns to out-of-state residents who stated that "they could give him any name they chose." In such a situation, "we would require the dealer to submit records of his sales, not for the purpose of registration, but for the purpose of proceeding against the dealer for a criminal violation of the law." Id. Serr emphasized, however, that ATF had "no intention of requiring law-abiding gun dealers to report their firearms transactions to us." Id.

Section 103 of FOP A, 100 Stat. 454, amended § 923(g)(1)(A) to provide that licensees "shall not be required to submit to the Secretary reports . . . except as expressly required by this section." Such records "include, for instance, multiple sales reports and certain informational reports used in connection with tracing." S.Rep. 98-583, at 15. "See, e.g., proposed 18 U.S.C. 923(g)(4) and (5),<sup>2</sup> discussed in more detail infra." Id. n.32.

Subparagraph (4) would be enacted as the demand letter provision. § 103 of FOP A, 100 Stat. 455. That provision "is based on existing Treasury regulations describing activities which facilitate the Secretary's ability to trace the disposition of firearms in connection with criminal investigations."<sup>3</sup> S.Rep. 98-583, at 17. The report continues:

<sup>2</sup> Subparagraph (5) would be enacted as § 923(g)(3), which provides that a licensee shall report to the Secretary the sale of two or more handguns in a five-day period.

<sup>3</sup> In 1994, Congress enacted § 923(g)(7), which created an explicit duty of a licensee to respond to a trace request, "orally or in writing, as the Attorney General may require" within 24 hours and authorized the Attorney General to make such requests by telephone. A trace request pursuant to § 923(g)(7) was, however, only for the purpose of "determining the disposition of 1 or more firearms in the course of a bona fide criminal investigation."

The purpose of Paragraph (4) is to clarify and ensure the Secretary's authority to conduct legitimate tracing activities in connection with bona fide criminal investigations. The authority granted to the Secretary under this Paragraph is intended to provide access to all information legitimately needed in sensitive criminal investigations, such as the investigation of President Reagan's attempted assassination. However, because of the breadth of the authority granted, limitations on the use of such information, which do not exist under current regulations, were included to restrict any potential for the abuse of the rights of law-abiding licensees. Id. at 18.

The use of § 923(g)(5)(A) in relation to traces would be limited not only to "bona fide criminal investigations," but would be further confined by what would be enacted as § 926(a).<sup>4</sup>

As the Senate report, which referred to the demand-letter provision as the "tracing provision[]" further explained:

The multiple sales, out-of-business records, and tracing provisions, which, in certain respects, codify existing regulations, were included in the Committee amendment to achieve an appropriate balance between legitimate law enforcement needs and the Committee's determination to substantially restrict the circumstances under which inspections are authorized. This, in turn, reduces the potential for unwarranted intrusions into the business affairs of law-abiding licensees. However,... the authority granted under 18 U.S.C. 923(g) (3), (4) and (5), as well as that contained in paragraph (1), as amended, are not to be construed to authorize the United States . . . to use the information obtained from any records or form which are required to be maintained for inspection or submission by licensees under Chapter 44 to establish any system of registration of firearms, firearms owners, or firearms transactions or dispositions.

Id. at 18.

4 § 926(a) provides in part that the Attorney General may not promulgate a "rule or regulation" which would:

require that records required to be maintained under this chapter or any portion of the contents of such records, be recorded at or transferred to a facility owned, managed, or controlled by the United States . . . .

Specifically, § 106 of FOP A, 100 Stat. 459-60, amended § 926(a) to prohibit BATF from requiring that licensee records "be recorded at or transferred to" a government facility or establishing any registration system, but allowing the authority to conduct traces "in the course of a criminal investigation." The report states that "this 'tracing' authority is codified in the Committee's amendment," obviously referring to what would be enacted as § 923(g)(5)(A). Senate Report 98-583 at 27.

Senator Orrin Hatch, floor manager of FOP A, explained of the demand letter regulation: "The Senate bill explicitly codifies regulations permitting tracing of firearms used in crimes." 132 Cong. Rec. S5351 (May 6, 1986).

In later Senate debate, Senator Hatch explained of § 926(a) that "the authority to request tracing information for dealers can never be used to establish any centralized or regional registration system for firearms or firearm owners." 131 Cong. Rec. S8691 (June 24, 1985). Senator Hatch also clarified the understanding of the 1968 demand letter regulation which FOP A would codify as follows:

In order to facilitate tracing of firearms used in violent crimes, licensed dealers currently are required to provide the Secretary of Treasury with information about specific weapons upon request. Further a dealer must report multiple handgun sales to the same person which occur within 5 consecutive business days, and if the dealer is going out of business, he must send his records to the BATF rather than destroy or otherwise dispose of them. These tracing authorities are included currently in Federal regulations.

131 Cong. Rec. S8691 (June 24, 1985) (emphasis added).

Senator Hatch added that "the authority to request tracing information for dealers can never be used to establish any centralized or regional registration system for firearms or firearm owners." Id. Hatch stated about § 923(g)(5)(A) that "Congress had no intent to require all law-abiding gun dealers to report all their firearms transactions" to BATF. Id. at S9129 (July 9, 1985).<sup>5</sup> For the purpose of "clarifying the record information submission requirement for firearms licensees," Senator Hatch inserted into the record ATF Director Serr's explanation of the purpose of the demand letter regulation quoted above.

Not a single senator voiced a contrary view of the purpose of § 923(g)(5)(A).

Thus, the canon of statutory construction that it "is the sponsors that we look to when the 5 Senator James McClure, the chief FOPA sponsor, provided the following concise explanation: "The central compromise of the Gun Control Act of 1968 - the sine qua non for the entry of the Federal Government into any form of firearms regulation was this: Records concerning gun ownership would be maintained by dealers, not by the Federal Government and not by State and local governments." 131 Cong. Rec. S9163-64 (July 9, 1985).

meaning of the statutory words is in doubt," Schwegmann Bros. v. Calvert Corp., 341 U.S. 384, 394-395 (1951), applies with particular emphasis with respect to § 923(g)(5)(A).

When the bill was being considered by the House after Senate passage, Edward T. Stevenson, Deputy Assistant Secretary, Enforcement and Operations, Department of the Treasury, explained the understanding of the United States of the language which became § 923(g)(5)(A):

Initially, the bill could be interpreted to remove the statutory authority by which the Government may require licensees to report information from required records. Based on this authority, licensees are currently required by regulations to provide information about particular firearms transactions on request, to report multiple sales of handguns to the same person, and to turn in to the Government out-of-business records upon ceasing business. Under S. 49, as passed by the Senate, these existing reporting requirements would be preserved and now specifically required by statute.

Legislation to Modify the 1968 Gun Control Act: Hearings Before the Committee on the Judiciary, House of Representatives, 99th Cong., 1st & 2d Sess., 1139 (1986) (emphasis added).

As discussed, supra, the "existing reporting requirements" referred to by Deputy Assistant Secretary Stevenson were "existing Treasury regulations describing activities which facilitate the Secretary's ability to trace the disposition of firearms in connection with criminal investigations." S.Rep. 98-583, at 17.

Thus, it was the clear understanding of both Congress and the executive branch prior to the enactment of § 923(g)(5)(A) that both the original regulation and the statute as enacted by FOP A were limited in scope to (1) information from dealers who were in violation of the law, and (2) information from any dealers about specific firearms dispositions necessary for bona fide criminal investigations.

Since the proposed multiple sales demand letters will apparently be sent to all dealers in a four-state area, including those who have never been found in violation of any law, and will request information about firearms that are not the subject of any criminal investigation, ATF has no authority for the proposed information collection.

It has been shown ad nauseum that restrictions on law abiding citizens do not influence the behavior of criminals. Let us not place more useless restrictions on our citizens.

Dear Barbara Terrell,

It's time that Obama administration does more to crack down on the gun smuggling carried out by the Mexican drug cartels.

I strongly support the ATF's proposal to require dealers along the border to report bulk sales of assault rifles, just like they already do with handgun sales. The ATF must use it's authority to collect this information and better enforce the laws already on the books.

With more than 30,000 people already murdered in cartel wars, this is an emergency that demands our government's immediate attention.

December 17, 2010 "Notice of Information Collection Under Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles."

I would like to add my comment on this idea from the ATF to force extra reporting on certain multiple gun purchases of certain rifles in certain states near the border. These requests for reports are with no probable cause that the purchase is by a criminal. These firearms are not illegal to purchase. Without a warrant and probable cause, legal purchases of firearms, after a background check, should not require extra reporting. It is also being applied in a biased manner. The ATF should not zero in on certain states if it truly believes that buying two legal guns in the same week after passing a background check is a sign of criminal activity. Every time the ATF requests more reports and more records, they are discouraging people from exercising their 2nd amendment rights. Please put a stop to this request.

Sincerely,
Corey Pie'

re: December 17, 2010 "Notice of Information Collection Under Review:

Good Morning,

I am aware the ATF would, understandably, like to take strong steps to help address drug-related violence in Mexico. However, lawlessness in Mexico-driven by multi-billion dollar drug cartels with access to any and all types of arms on the international black markets-is no excuse for U.S. law enforcement agencies to spend scarce resources on programs that exceed their legal powers.

In addition, there are existing controls on importation, manufacture, and distribution to FFL dealers, and laws regulating sales to the public. It would appear that enforcement of existing laws would provide greater benefit than adding an additional level of rules which lend themselves to causing difficulty for the law abiding public and FFL dealers, and minimal effect on illegal markets.

Therefore, OMB should deny ATF's request to approve its proposed collection of information.

Subject: Oppose Regulation Expanding Multiple Sale Reporting

I am writing to oppose the so called emergency regulation to register multiple sales of certain rifles with BATFE as described in FR Doc. 2010-31761 from the 12/17/2010 Federal Register.

This regulation is both illegal and unnecessary. Further there is no justification for any "emergency" implementation as reported by the Washington Post:

White House delayed rule meant to stop gun flow to Mexico, Washington Post, Dec. 17, 2010, On-line edition:

( <http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2010/12/17/AR2010121706598.html>

- ).
- * The regulation proposed is outside the statutory grant of authority to record information about multiple sales of firearms. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) specifically grants the authority to collect multiple sale information on handguns and revolvers. Other firearms are excluded and there is no implied authority to extend this reporting requirement to rifles or any other type of firearm.
  - * "FFL" holders are already required by law to respond to BATFE requests for information on firearms distribution pursuant to criminal investigations: Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(7).

* The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of information collected, which establishes a nationwide registry of "certain types of firearms" as proposed. Because of this the regulation as proposed is illegal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a). "No such rule or regulation . may require that records required to be maintained under this chapter or any portion of the contents of such records, be recorded at or transferred to a facility owned, managed, or controlled by the United States or any State or any political subdivision thereof, nor that any system of registration of firearms, firearms owners, or firearms transactions or disposition be established."

There is a grave potential for this regulation to unduly burden citizens who are collectors or must obtain purchase permits at the local or state level to possess firearms. The proposed regulation does not say what the agency intends to do with the information but ostensibly it would be for criminal investigations. Subjecting law abiding gun owners to this type of investigation under the guise of "information collection" is an overt attempt to prevent them from exercising their 2nd Amendment rights to purchase and own firearms.

* This regulatory action has not allowed the public sufficient time to comment. This regulatory action should not be approved.

Dear Ms. Terrell,

I am in favor of the rifles being registered. As an NRA member I don't always agree with the lopsided policies and 'fear' that the NRA seems to have ever time a idea comes up on trying to make firearms ownership safer and better. I have three rifles that I would be more that happy to register. I teach firearm safety to young people in the summer.

Too many people have weapons (a firearm on steroids) that have no business as a useful firearm.

Best of luck with this bill. Let me know if I can help in any way.

Re: December 17, 2010 "Notice of Information Collection Under Review: Report of Multiple Sale or Other Disposition of Certain Rifles."

Dear Barbara A. Terrell,

I must say that I am very disappointed to see that the BATFE, an agency that is supposed to enforce the law, is trying to mandate certain dealers to break the law. In my opinion, the law clearly states that as dealers we are to report only multiple handgun sales to any non-licensed person that take place within any 5 day period to the BATFE. The law is very clear that is only referring to handguns (pistols and/or revolvers). As a licensed dealer, I gladly do my part when those transactions take place. However, until the LAW says that we are to provide the same details for any other transaction, we would be breaking the intent and letter of the law if we provided the BATFE with said information. I understand that there is a desire by some to have certain long guns included with the previously mentioned statute. Until that desire is satiated with a real law approved by the members of the House, Senate and the President of the United States, it is only a desire and cannot be enforced. We live in a country of laws and BATFE's job is to enforce those laws and make suggestions to the legislature to improve those laws when needed. Please keep within the bounds set by Constitution of the United States and the laws that have been written and approved since that time. As eager as some people seem to be to go far beyond their authority in name of goodness, we must be cautious... That same reasoning is used by people who care to destroy our system and Country. The checks and balances of our Constitution are the best in existence and have seen no equal in all of the earth's history. Step back, and follow the proper procedure and we will gladly do what the Law tells us to do. Just remember, we are all the same, we are all subject to the laws of the land. When we forget that, we forget that someone else could do the same harm to us that we are doing to someone else now... And that is not any more right that trying to force us dealers to break any written law. I personally think that you should not expect any dealer to cooperate with the BATFE with an 'emergency mandate', when the emergency is imagined. The other problem is of liability. Our customers trust that we will not disclose any information that is not required by the law. By trying to force our hand, our liability would be greatly increased. As usual, we cannot expect to get effective results by pursuing the law abiding citizens of this country. You must focus on the law breakers. Again, us dealers are more than willing to help enforce the laws and to either prevent unqualified persons from obtaining firearms or to help catch them when they do. It does us no good to have bad publicity that arises from bad/illegal transactions. Come up with a plan that will work, and we will back you 100%. Wasting our time with endless paperwork is going to be met with resistance. Sometimes I think that the people at or near the top are so out of touch, that they think that we are the bad guys. It really makes it difficult to trust their judgment of any other subject. As someone who should be working with dealers, I would expect you to be able to work with us to come up with a better plan. Please don't forget that we are playing for the same team – the United States of America!

Thank you for your time.

Subject: Ignorant law

There should be NO requirement of the 8,500 firearm dealers in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas to report all sales of two or more semiautomatic rifles within five consecutive business days, if the rifles are larger than .22 caliber and use detachable magazines. For example, a dealer would have to tell the government every time a deer hunter in Sacramento or Amarillo finds a good deal on a pair of semi-auto .30-06s like the popular Remington 7400.

The ATF has no legal authority to demand these reports, and the flood of new paperwork will waste scarce law enforcement resources that should be spent on legitimate investigations.

Tyranny is not the answer. Enforcement of the present immigration laws would better serve the public.

Ernie

Subject: Oppose registration of multiple sales of certain rifles

Hello Ms. Terrell,

I am writing today to oppose the so called emergency information collection request to register multiple sales of certain rifles with BATFE as described in FR Doc. 2010-31761 from the 12/17/2010 Federal Register. <http://edocket.access.gpo.gov/2010/pdf/2010-31761.pdf>

This information collection is both illegal and unnecessary. Firearm dealers are already burdened with overly stringent record-keeping requirements and this would only add to potential further abuse and intimidating, time-consuming and resource consuming scrutiny by BATFE personnel. This "emergency" is based upon no emergency whatsoever. The registration scheme is nothing more than political intimidation.

Furthermore, there is no justification for any "emergency" implementation as reported by the Washington Post: 'White House delayed rule meant to stop gun flow to Mexico', Washington Post, Dec. 17, 2010, On-line edition: (<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2010/12/17/AR2010121706598.html> ).

* The regulation proposed is outside the statutory grant of authority to record information about multiple sales of firearms. Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(3)(A) specifically grants the authority to collect multiple sale information on handguns and revolvers. Other firearms are excluded and there is no implied authority to extend this reporting requirement to rifles or any other type of firearm.

* This attempt by ATF is universally and overwhelmingly opposed by citizens and their congressional delegations. See the following:
<http://rehberg.house.gov/index.cfm?sectionid=26&parentid=5&sectiontree=5,26&itemid=1584>

* "FFL" holders are already required by law to respond to BATFE requests for information on firearms distribution pursuant to criminal investigations: Title 18 U.S.C. § 923(g)(7).

* The regulation contains no provision for the destruction of information collected, which establishes a nationwide registry of "certain types of firearms" as proposed. Because of this the regulation as proposed is illegal under Title 18 U.S.C. § 926(a). "No such rule or regulation ... may require that records required to be maintained under this chapter or any portion of the contents of such records, be recorded at or transferred to a facility owned, managed, or controlled by the United States or any State or any political subdivision thereof, nor that any system of registration of firearms, firearms owners, or firearms transactions or disposition be established."

There is a grave potential for this information collection to unduly burden citizens who are collectors or must obtain purchase permits at the local or state level to possess firearms. The proposed regulation does not say what the agency intends to do with the information but ostensibly it would be for criminal investigations. Subjecting law abiding gun owners to this type of investigation under the guise of "information collection" is an overt attempt to prevent them from exercising their 2nd Amendment rights to purchase and own firearms.

Our membership strongly opposes any further regulation on law-abiding firearm dealers.

I also disagree with the premise of the program. It infringes on our 2nd amendment rights. That is something I hold in high regard.

I wight this message on behalf of law-abiding gun owners in America, especially the states you wish to demand "Long Gun Sales Reporting" on 2 or more sells of rifles, to inform you what you are demanding will not help you in combating illegal purchases or stopping the violence in Mexico.

All recent reports from the NRA and various media outlets show gun purchases in the boarding states have zero... to do with gun violence in Mexico. Further more reports show the Drug Cartels are getting there weapons from their own military and not from gun dealers in America.

I strongly believe you know this too, but wish to fuel your on agenda of "Gun Control" on law-abiding Americans. So I fear this message will fall on deaf-ears.

Subject: Dec. 17, 2010 "notice of Information collection under review"

Ms Terrell,

.....My name is Patrick W. Rice, I am a citizen of Bushnell, Fl. I am writing you today to express My concern over the DEC. 17th, 2010 "Notice of information collection under review: Report of multiple sale or other disposition of certain rifles"

My concern is not the intent of this specific request that you or others in your agency might feel you need to combat the illegal re-sale of these specific rifles. I feel that the ATF is a very professional agency and has no other motive except to prevent any illegal trafficking in these rifles. My concern is the result of this collection of information creates another type of "registration" if you will, that could at some point be used by other government agencies to infringe on peoples 2nd Amendment rights. I am familiar with the true statistics of the percentages of these rifles that are being found in Mexico in the hands of crime rings and smugglers, and I do not feel that this collection of information would in itself help to reduce in any major way the amount of rifles being smuggled across from our Country to Mexico. As a matter of fact the amount of information might not be as useful as some think unless you are given the extra manpower to properly analyze it, it would just become another list of "Gun Owners" if you will.

Please do not think that I would not want to give your agency as many tools as you can have to stop any illegal gun trafficking, I applaud your agency for the job that it has done and continues to do day in and day out. I have found that the ATF is one of the more efficient agencies in our government. But I do hope that every consideration is given to the information that is compiled by such a reporting requirement and what becomes of this information after your agency is done with it.

Thank you,
Patrick W. Rice
